EUROPEAN — IMPORTS — a Sysco company

Burgers have long been an iconic dish in the United States, with a rich history dating back to the early 20th century. Over the years, they have evolved from a simple sandwich to a culinary phenomenon — here's a few reasons why they continue to captivate:

- Versatility—burgers can be customized to individual tastes, dietary needs, and trending flavors.
- Comfort Food with a Twist—burgers provide a sense of familiarity and indulgence, but allow for creativity if desired.
- Social Media: with the rise of social media, food influencers and bloggers have showcased mouth-watering burgers that quickly go viral. People seek out Instagram-worthy variations.

Below are a few of the Mega Trends included in Datassential's February 2024 Burgers Report and some of the products European Imports offers within each.

Whimsical Carriers: Brunch burgers with waffles or donut carriers are an example. Others can be nods to different cuisines such as flattened plantain for a take on a jibarito.

- Le Chic Pâtissier's Liege Waffles make the perfect carrier for a brunch burger topped with a sunny side up egg! Incorporate this waffle throughout the menu with Chicken and Waffles, a Croque Madame sandwich, or even into a dessert.

Savory Jams: Bacon, fig, tomato, and more remain ways to do a touch of sweet and savory on burgers as well as offering an intriguing condiment for sometimes less in season elements.

- Divina's Caramelized Onion and Peruvian Pepper Jams make the perfect additions to burgers that can also be offered on a cheese board or on a sandwich.
- Wildly Delicious' Caramelized Onion & Maple Confit and Beet & Red Onion Marmalade are perfect sweet-yet-savory condiments for topping burgers.

Next Level Classics: Elevating the basics of burgers can make something classic feel inspired. Think tomato jam instead of tomatoes, arugula instead of shredded lettuce, or pickled onions instead of plain white.

- Divina offers Caramelized Onions and Pickled Purple Onions to instantly take your burgers from classic to next level.
- Cheese is what we do! Check out the recently expanded sliced cheese assortment on Page 2.

Smashed: These are thin, smashed to allow for caramelizing around the edges, and served simply.

- Pasture Perfect offers two exceptional 2-ounce slider options, one Wagyu and one Lamb, both the perfect size to offer for the current smashed burger craze.

BETTER CHEESEBURGERS—ONE SLICE AT A TIME!

As people get deeper into building better burgers, so do those who make the cheese! Now we can offer new and exciting flavors, not just your traditional cheeses. Our newest sliced cheese offerings come from The Smoked Cheese Factory.

THE SMOKED CHEESE FACTORY

A local family-owned company, The Smoked Cheese Factory has a unique array of naturally oven smoked cheeses and the ability to slice and package! Perfect flavors to enhance a grilled burger or layer in smokiness if you are making panini. These are not liquid smoke, rather naturally oven-smoked, burning real wood to create real smoke the old-fashioned way.

First up, try the natural white cheddar. It has just enough sharpness to contrast the smokiness, a great melt but also extremely versatile, an easy addition to hot or cold sandwiches.

Stocked IL, VA and CA; Non-stocked TX

Second, a smooth and creamy smoked process gouda. This is a cheese that gives you the melt you want — paired with crispy bacon on a burger will just give you that ooey gooey rich and chewy you want!

CASTELLO BURGER BLUE

Castello® has brought a balance of innovation and tradition to the art of cheesemaking. Castello® cheeses cover a wide range of traditional regional recipes and their own unique crafted cheeses, always made with natural ingredients and great attention to detail.

Conveniently sliced and made to melt, Castello Burger Blue Slices transform burgers into an epicurean delight. While perfect for burgers, the creamy and characteristically tangy notes of blue feature balanced sweet and salty undertones, that lend an exquisite flavor to any dish.

The slices come 32 in a pack, are exact weight (0.75 ounces) for portion control, and are consistent in sizing (3.5" x 3.5"). All that said, these slices are best to use on a burger, sandwich, or grilled cheese.

INDULGE IN ANCHOVIES

Summer is a perfect time to indulge in something I can't ever get enough of: anchovies! Regnoli white anchovies have been part of our assortment for a very long time and we sell tons of them this time of year — and for good reason. These small fish are marinated rather than salted, giving them a refreshing pickled flavor that lends a jolt of acid and umami to your dishes of any temperature.

Caesar salads are a natural and inevitable home, but smart cooks know to include these beauties in roughly chopped salsa verde with capers and parsley; to drape them over glistening and robust sliced tomatoes to be doused with olive oil and served along milky imported burrata; or to pair with Castelvetrano olives, vinegar, fresh herbs and more olive oil to dress a simply grilled whole branzino. There aren't many pizzas in the world that wouldn't benefit from a few filets, and of course, pasta can be enlivened similarly. And who can pass up a Gilda, the classic Spanish tapa of anchovies on a skewer with a guindilla pepper and crisp olive?

What makes Regnoli White Anchovies so special? Unlike their stronger brown or red counterparts, these Italian gems boast a subtler, nuanced burst of flavor. Regnoli sources their anchovies from the pristine waters of the Adriatic Sea, ensuring the freshest catch. Through a time-honored marinating process, they achieve the perfect balance of salty tang and delicate acidity. A sprinkle here, a sliver there, and your dishes transform into masterpieces that will have your guests begging for the secret ingredient.

We offer Regnoli white anchovies in jars of two sizes and in a tray with herbs and peppers. They are the warm weather secret weapon to bright and alluring dishes!

SEASONINGS AT THEIR FINEST

With the temperature heating up, our thoughts turn to those classic summer activities of grilling, dining al fresco, and lighter menu fare. Char Crust seasonings are an easy way to elevate any protein. The burger at the bar and grill, the fish in a taco, the chicken in a salad, or the steak on a sandwich can be enhanced by Char Crust's variety of flavors.

The Char Crust seasoning blends originated in 1957 at Al Farber's steak house in Chicago. When the restaurant closed, patrons were devastated at the loss of the secret seasoning which added a crunchy texture while keeping proteins moist and flavorful. Thus, the Char Crust as we know it was born. Their motto, "Seals in the Juices" is one they take seriously!

Beloved by chefs and customers, 10 flavors round out the assortment. From the Original Hickory to Jamaican Jerk, Char Crust has a flavor that fits in any menu. Add the All American Barbecue to your burger for a juicy, flavorful slice of summer.

Using the seasonings is easy! Coat your preferred protein in the Char Crust flavor of your choosing, drizzle with some olive oil, and cook. It's that simple. Because the seasoning comes in a variety of pack sizes, there is an option for anyone looking to add flavor, texture, and pizzazz to their proteins.

Newest to the assortment is Char Crust's Turkey Rub.

INDUSTRY TRENDS

SNACK TRENDS: PROTEIN REIGNS SUPREME

Four shifts in consumer behavior are driving snack trends, including health, global flavors, sustainability and intentional indulgences, said Scott Dicker, market insights director of SPINS at the Food Entrepreneur Experience webinar on April 24.

Dicker provided an overview of the functional snack market and what trends are driving it.

The main categories influencing snacking trends include protein, sugar reduction, sustainability, mushrooms, caffeine and evolving flavors.

PROTEIN REIGNS SUPREME

Added protein options are seen in most aisles at the grocery store, Dicker said.

“Things like protein bars, as well as chips, puffs, everything you can think of,” he said.

Consumers are looking to re-engage with some snack categories with protein being a main driver.

“It’s one macro nutrient that continues to have a health halo,” Dicker said. “Consumers are drawn to protein claims. You take a product that once was considered kind of a ‘junk’ food, you add protein to it, and it becomes kind of a health food.”

SUGAR REDUCTION

Consumers are searching for ways to reduce sugar while still wanting to intentionally indulge in sweet snacks.

“Sugar continues to be the most vilified ingredient alongside some of the artificial ingredients,” Dicker said.

“People want to revisit some of the nostalgic products and flavors and, in some cases, they want some of the healthier versions of it.”

Dates are an option in sugar reduction.

“Whether it’s a standalone snack or used as a sweetener we’re seeing a lot of products innovating in this arena,” Dicker said. “We see this in beverages as well. Not dates specifically but using fruit or fruit juice as a sweetener to have sugar without ‘added’ sugar and to not use an alternative sweetener.”

SUSTAINABILITY

Multiple brands are tackling sustainability issues through upcycled food products.

Whether the product is in the form of vegetable chips or plant-based jerky, brands are seeking sustainable options for a healthier planet and consumers longer term.

“When it comes to sustainability, upcycled is one that I’m really looking at,” Dicker said. “We’ve seen it grow tremendously from $400,000 to $20 million in the past couple of years. This is certified up-cycled. This is a great way of reducing food waste.”

SUPER MUSHROOMS

Mushrooms are blurring lines at retail. The ingredient is in the supplement aisle and is making its way to functional beverages and food.

“While mushrooms are gaining traction, Dicker said there still needs to be ongoing education.

“I don’t think consumers are too in tune to specific mushrooms yet, but they are familiar with some of these super mushrooms and benefits,” he said.

EVOLVING FLAVORS TRENDS

Consumers are adding new flavors to everyday foods with options like jalapeño and dill pickle.

Jalapeño is seen in a variety of products from frozen baked cornbread bites, to jalapeño ketchup, even jalapeño lime popcorn.

Dill pickle also is lighting up the taste buds of consumers, from a dill pickle chip dip to a dill pickle hummus.

“A lot of times some of these not as sweet flavors seem to be doing really well,” Dicker said.
